

Encouraging parents/carers to attend the 'Help Your Child Love Maths!' workshop

We've put together some tips to help you encourage parents/carers to attend the 'Help Your Child Love Maths!' workshop. These ideas have been collated from past schools involved in the project.

- Coincide the workshop with another event that parents/carers are already attending.
- Provide refreshments.
- Run multiple workshops at different times of the day to suit working parents.
- Ask children to create invitations to encourage parents/carers to attend.
- Ensure parents/carers understand that the workshop will not involve them doing any actual maths.
- Provide the opportunity for parents/carers to visit their children before or after the workshop.
- Liaise with the PTA/Parent Governors/class representatives/Family Liaison Officer to promote the event.
- Provide childcare for workshops hosted out of school hours.
- Run a raffle that parents/carers are automatically entered into if they attend.
- Make sure all staff, including SLT, are aware of the workshop and can promote it to families.

We would be grateful to hear about any other successful ideas to add to this list.
